WHITES AND BLACKS FIGHT.

In a race riot yesterday afternoon on the open common near the District of Columbia jail between a hundred or more negroes and the members of the Olympia baseball team, which had gone there to play its regular weekly game, Harry Smithson, white, a member of the Olympia team, received concussion of the brain, as a result of being hit on the head with a heavy bat believed to have been wielded by Robert Bell, one of the negroes. For a time it was thought Smithson was dead. He is now in a hospital in a serious condition. Following the assault on Smithson a general fight started, the whites being largely outnumbered. Several negro women participated vigorously. Sticks, knives, rocks, bricks, and other weapons were being freely used on both sides when the police arrived. Bell fought savagely when the police attempted to handcuff him and place him in the patrol wagon. He finally was subdued.

When the police attempted to withdraw from the field of action with their prisoner, the mob of negroes made a mad dash for the patrol wagon. The crowd was beaten back, and the wagon started for the station house. As it left the grounds the negroes threw bricks and rocks at the wagon.

After Bell was landed at the station house, the police quickly returned to the scene of action. The fight was still in progress, the white men holding their own against great odds. Then another battle between the police and the negroes followed in which the latter were finally subdued.

Friends of Smithson say they went to the common with their baseball club with the necessary permit from the superintendent of public buildings and grounds; that they use the grounds every Sunday during the summer. They found the negroes using the grounds, and when they asked them to leave a dispute arose.

During the discussion the negroes showed an ugly temper, and without warning, Bell is alleged to have snatched a baseball bat and felled Smithson. He attempted to strike other members of the white team. Then the general riot started, lasting for an hour.

KILLED IN COLD BLOOD.

Incensed at the intrusion to Cherryville, N. C., of two suspicious men, whom they believed to be illegally retailing liquor, a small posse of citizens, headed by C. S. Reynolds, spent hours Saturday night hunting down the strangers, bringing them to bay at an early hour yesterday on the main street. Calling upon them to halt, Reynolds fired, killing Andrew Pruett, one of the strangers instantly. The other, Reilly Fallant, was captured and jailed. The grip the men carried between them contained contraband liquor. Both hailed from the adjoining county of Lincoln, and Pruett the victim leaves a widow and three children.

Reynolds, who headed the movement against the alleged bootleggers, is superintendent of the cotton mill at Cherryville. The coroner's jury fastened the death of Pruett upon Reynolds and held him without bail for court on the ground that he acted without warrant of law.

Pretty Girl Horsewhipped.

For horsewhipping, it is alleged, Miss Ora Rose at the home of Rev. J. H. Bagwell, at Morral, Ohio, a warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of Mrs. K. Lily, of Columbus. Coming from Columbus, Mrs. Lily, it is charged, went direct from the train to the Rose home. She learned that Miss Rose, who is 20 years old and pretty, had gone to pay a social call at the minister's house. With a horse-whip concealed under her traveling coat, Mrs. Lily, it is alleged, met the girl in the front yard of the Baptist parsonage. Miss Rose extended her hand as though to greet her, when the Columbus woman, Miss Rose says, screamed: "You will fool with my husband, will you?" At the same time she drew the whip and lashed the younger woman unmercifully. Before any court action was taken Mrs. Lily, it is alleged, caught the next train and left the village.

ALLEGED CLERICAL PLOT.

The newspapers of Lisbon yesterday printed alarming reports of an alleged plot of the clerical party for the overthrow of the Portuguese government and the establishment of a military dictatorship.

It is said that several regiments have joined the movement, and that the Duke of Oporto, the heir apparent to the throne, while at the Casino at Cascaes Saturday night, was apprised
